ART ON GYPSUM STONE

CNPJ: 27.499.284/0001-85

PRESENTATION

José Medeiros Cavalcante Costa, known as Mestre Deda, is recognized as a Master Artisan and holder of the Living Heritage title of the municipality of Trindade, standing out for his significant contribution to the popular culture and traditional craftsmanship of the region.

Mestre Deda's work repositions gypsum once treated as industrial waste as a noble raw material, transformed into high-standard pieces with both aesthetic and functional value.

Each creation is the result of a precise artisanal process, featuring refined finishing and contemporary design, aligned with the demands of the international market.

More than just products, these are pieces with narrative, origin, and purpose. The transformation of waste into art adds sustainable value to the portfolio, meeting the growing global demand for responsible, authentic solutions with cultural identity.

With versatile design and high perceived value, the pieces adapt to different contexts and sophisticated residential environments, as well as architecture, design, and décor projects, expanding their potential for presence in international markets and premium segments.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

Raw Material Origin

The pieces begin as raw stone, preserving their natural characteristics such as texture, color, and strength.

Selection and Preparation

The raw material is carefully selected to ensure quality and suitability for the production process.

Sustainable Utilization

The process prioritizes the full use of the stone, including the reuse of waste from other factories, reducing waste and environmental impact.

Final Product Enhancement

Each fragment is strategically used, resulting in unique pieces with identity and a commitment to environmental responsibility.
